Understanding and communicating with your patient population are critical for success as the healthcare system shifts toward value-based reimbursement. NextGen Healthcare offers the advantage of sophisticated yet user-friendly solutions that provide actionable intelligence.

Gain clarity, improve patient outcomes, and grow your market share. Our population health analytics allow you to:

- Aggregate data from multiple sources, within the EHR and beyond – integrate data from claims, health information exchanges (HIEs), and other sources to gain a richer, more accurate view of your patients.

- Obtain valuable insights – convert patient data from disparate sources into actionable information by identifying patient cohorts with distinct care needs.

- Put insight into action – use an outreach engine to communicate with at-risk patients, which can help decrease risk factors for chronic illness and lower the cost of care.

- Improve disease management – better classify, monitor, document, and manage patients with chronic conditions.

- Save money and effort – identify and eliminate costly care that fails to achieve desired outcomes.

- Enhance revenue – achieve quality measures and qualify for incentives under value-based payment.

- Increase earnings from preventive services – automatically send reminders for preventive services to identified cohorts of your patient population, encouraging them to seek the care they need.
